

Celebrating Women in Photography Today

HUNDREDS OF WOMEN

Mikayla Miller

My name is Mikayla, I'm 23 years old and am originally from a small town in Utah. I studied photography in London before having to drop out this year, and am now back in the states. Here are a few images from a new series I've been working on, focusing on women in my hometown. These are a few of April, a woman who was born into a cult and escaped at 15. She has become a ballerina, videographer and now self-taught lawyer. She was in a bad car accident and has had over 20 surgeries. You can see her scars in these images. They are all shot on medium format and hand printed.
