

Celebrating Women in Photography Today

TRANS(ITION)

Reme Campos

I have started photographing some teenagers who identify as transgender but who are in different stages of transition - if at all. I have asked them to write something of how they feel, emotions, state of mind, etc.

There will be a second part of the project when I will meet the same young adults I photographed and I will go through the same way of working with them after their surgery.

I will be including sound of their experiences and when they first started feeling they do not belong to their body which usually starts soon after their 5th years old and not on their teenager times as a "new Phase"

Reme Campos is always seeking perspectives, whilst retaining her unique ability to reveal the hidden aspects of her subjects. Portraying the sublime and beguiling within images that the conventional "beauty" yet hold our attention with the uncompromisingly gentle and compassionate eye. Her portraits display an insight into the hidden inner life of the subject, redefining the boundary between informality and the contrived atmosphere of the sitting. Drawn to the underbelly of life, fascinated by the unwanted, the discarded and the unknown, Her work lets us into her world, one of unswerving honesty, expressing a sense of loyalty and empathy with all she engages with; sometimes there is sorrow, others there is stillness, determination, joy, admiration.
